Idea Integration Appoints Amanda Napolitano Managing Director of the Jacksonville Branch Office

Jacksonville, FL (June 28, 2006) – Idea Integration®, the IT consulting and systems integration unit of MPS Group, Inc., today announced the appointment of Amanda Napolitano as managing director for the Jacksonville branch office.

Amanda has been with Idea since 2000, and has led quality assurance, directed the project management organization, and managed the Technical Communications/Learning Solutions and Web Design practices. In 2004, Napolitano was integral in the development of the Microsoft relationship at a national level. Her core responsibilities as head of the branch will be to drive growth in the areas of business intelligence, database architecture and management, Microsoft solutions, application development, infrastructure, security, and technical writing. The Jacksonville branch is Idea's largest branch, with over 150 consultants delivering project solutions throughout the southeast.

Amanda is an active member of the Jacksonville community, volunteering her time to the American Heart Association and the Donna Hicken Foundation. Amanda is a Committee Member for the Gator Bowl Association, and an active member of the Society for Technical Communication and ASTD. Napolitano is also Program Director of the Jacksonville Galloway marathon training program and a member of the Jacksonville Track Club.
